

Putting.

Best observation this week: A veteran CEO said she thought she needed to putter with about thirty percent of her time. Made me think we been undervalue the practice. Maybe we need a more elegant word? Maybe it's not a guilty pleasure or a time waster, but a chance to let our brains play, create and get ready to refocus. Maybe there's ROI! For me it's watering the plants on the deck, walking through Office Max, decluttering a page on my website and teaching the dog a new trick. And you?
